Statement on the occasion of the seventh anniversary of the revolution

The victory of the Syrian revolution depends on its continuity and the correction of its path.

As the seventh anniversary of the glorious Syrian revolution comes, Our people continue to strive and sacrifice to achieve its goals of freedom, dignity, end authoritarianism and achieve a transition to the national democratic change in the direction of a modern state that would secure the equal rights of the Syrians without discrimination.

Our people at home are suffering from the siege, bombing, starvation, systematic displacement, the demographic change practiced by the criminal regime, backed by the Iranian-sectarian militias, the blatant Russian intervention that has trampled on all international laws and the human rights law. The Russian representatives boast that they use against the Syrians modern types of weapons and making Syria a field for their experiments and a market to promote its trade at the expense of Syrian blood, in addition to the use of the Veto right 11 times to protect this regime from accountability for the massacres, especially the use of chemical weapons. Russia is Helping the Syrian regime even by circumventing the international resolutions since the Geneva 1 in 2012 to Resolution 2401 of 2018 regarding the last cease fire in Al-Ghouta. Russia continues in the bombing of the unbearable civilians and the opening of the roads such as Astana and then the failed Sochi, with the aim to legalize an alternatives and a solution tailored to the Syrian regime instead of the United Nations resolutions and trapping the Syrian opposition and makes it deviates from its basic objectives.

All this took place amid the silence of the international community, failure of the United Nations, and the collusion of the great powers. This reflected negatively on the events and brought the Syrians into a dark tunnel without a glimmer of hope.

In spite of this, our people in the eastern Ghouta still legendary resisting against the bestial (Assad-Russia-Iran) aggression that failed to break their will and to achieve the goals in terms of Ghouta's control and the displacement of the people and acquire it as a gain and reward.

We, in the Syrian Democratic People's Party, greet the steadfastness of the Syrians everywhere in the country and their greatest sacrifices. We call upon the United Nations and the members of the Security Council to assume their responsibilities in the immediate implementation of Security Council resolutions concerning the Syrian issue, in particular the resolutions 2118 and 2254.

The establishment of a secular, democratic, pluralistic, unified and independent state requires all Syrian patriotic forces and democrats, the FSA leaders, and national figures to unite their efforts for the following:

First: Review of the revolutionary struggle and the political performance during the years of the revolution.

Second: acting on the unification of all the political visions to have a national political reference, representing all the spectrums of the Syrian people, through a comprehensive national program that accommodates all the requirements of our people in building the future of Syria as a free country for all its citizens without any kind of discrimination.

Third: Working to end the role of extremist forces, which serving agendas that have nothing to do with the objectives of the revolution.

Long live the revolution of the Syrian people
Glory for martyrs
Healing for the injured
And the immediate freedom for detainees
